Travellers Aid at Ballarat Station

Like Ballarat Station, we've been around for a long time

When you volunteer with Travellers Aid you join an Australian registered charity that has supported safe and independent travel in Victoria for more than 100 years. Our partnerships and services make a difference in people's lives and help connect communities. And it is your volunteer contribution that makes it possible.

> 'The service that your team provides changes lives. Just love what you do.' – Felicia Mariani, Chief Executive, Victoria Tourism Industry Council.

We're improving access and inclusion for all travellers

Travellers Aid's Ballarat Station support hub offers connection services between train platforms and other nearby transport.
Coordinated by an on-site service manager, our team of trained volunteers provide a friendly helping hand to people with disability, older patrons, or those with ill-health, or an injury.
As a volunteer, you will support people with a mobility impairment to connect to their train from the station car park, taxi drop-off or bus zone.
Using wheelchairs or other mobility equipment you will help people safely navigate the level crossing and access station platforms.

We are seeking volunteers for a three-hour weekday shift/s between 9am and 3pm (flexibility available).

Volunteering in your community is a great way to;

- Connect with your local community
- Meet new people
- Increase fitness

- Gain transferable skills and development. Our volunteer roles and training offer great experience for people interested in disability support, aged care and allied health careers.

> "I think Travellers Aid is a wonderful mechanism to provide people with independence where they might not venture out of the house…and gives them a sense of not being isolated because they know there will be someone there to assist them." – Travellers Aid volunteer

Travellers Aid is running an information session for potential volunteers to find out more about the role and ask us questions. It will be held in Ballarat on Tuesday 17 September at 11am. If you'd like to attend, please email us at volunteers@travellersaid.org.au

Or, if you're the decisive type, head to our website and apply online.

How to get in touch:

- Email ballarat@travellersaid.org.au for more information
- Apply online via the website
- Call us on Tel: 0491 767 177

We can't wait to connect with you.
